Aruba's Eagle Beach is the setting for La Quinta Beach Resort - a great alternative to the hustle and bustle of large hotels. The resort offers a relaxing, stress-free environment and quaint surroundings with all the comforts of home. Some units have private whirlpools. On-site are two outdoor pools and a pool bar.

La Quinta Beach Resort was a wonderful, small scale resort as it contains only 54 units which provides for a quiet, peaceful atmosphere. Though the resort is located across a small road from the beach, we could walk to the beach in less than 2 minutes. The resort provides lounges and cabanas for their guests which are very useful as the sun is quite intense.

The public buses stop very near the resort making it most convenient to travel either into Oranjestad, or to the lighthouse at the northern section of the island. The cost to ride the bus is very cheap, but if you want a transfer, which can be used to either catch another bus or return trip.

Units vary from Studios to 3 bedrooms with a lock-off. The main portion of this unit was very spacious with a full kitchen, dining area, living area, nice balcony, hot tub on balcony, large master bedroom, and medium size bathroom. Only 1 television located in the living room. The resort did provide dishwasher soap and dishwashing liquid which is included in daily maid service. Coffee filters were provided. Blow dryers were provided in the bathroom. The lockout unit contained a bathroom, king size bed, kitchenette and TV.

The resort has 2 pools, restaurant, and pool-side bar on-site. The surf is very rough on the north side, but very scenic. Goats roam freely in the interior of the island, and are quite interested in the tourists, but pose no problems. Wild donkeys roam also, but since their numbers are limited. Wild parrots fly about the island, even around the resort.

The weather on Aruba is wonderful. The sun is very intense and precautions should be taken. Be prepared for windy conditions and don't expect your hair to stay in place. The wind is a blessing due to the intense sun/heat.

Be prepared to spend more for meals than you are used to. Dinners run about $70 for 2 excluding drinks. All in all, Aruba was wonderful, and La Quinta was very enjoyable.
